

25.7.78.
at Venice.

VENEZIA

Ca' d'Oro

Ca' d'Oro

Maison d'Oro

This is one of the old palaces on the Grand

Canal in which the great nobles & merchants of the Venetian Republic used to live. It is called "The House of Gold." Many of these houses are still the homes of wealthy people.

We have seen some beautiful things in Venice — the Cathedral, Palace of the old rulers (Venice is now of course no longer independent but part of Italy since 1866), the wonderful pictures in the Accademia galleries, & several churches.

To-day we are leaving for Verona for one night — where we were when we first came. There we shall hear the opera performed in the open air in the old Roman Arena.
Then back to Milan & home via Switzerland & Paris, arriving about Sunday. Nat's business went off well & we are both very fit. I hope you both are. Love from Nat & Joan.

Mr. & Mrs. C.W. Pettet,
"Lavenham",
Beech Road,
HASLEMERE,
Surry.

INGHILTERRA.