

Torino - Piazza Castello e Palazzo Madama

Milano 15 Nov 1952

It's 9.45 a.m. just having breakfast after a good night's sleep. It's quite foggy today + it feels almost like being at home. There are 2 things I haven't written abt yet. 1) The skull cap I saw the other day. I thought it belongs to Ws.
D'yle or perhaps to one of our guests Sat.
night before I left. ~~But was~~ Donald?
Sandy? I certainly haven't seen it here. 2) Due to the weather I couldn't take any snaps. I hope there'll be more sun in Genoa. — This card shows the building where It's 1st part set. It was an old castle, but as that wasn't good enough, they built a terrific facade in contemporary style which looks as if it was stuck on with Copydax by mistake.
