We arrived back in Rimini last evening at midnight after having had a hot meal in Ferrara at 9 pm, and crossed the Rubicon once more. The rain had ceased by the time we reached Ferrara but I am afraid that we did not see Venice under the best conditions. This morning we bathed in a rough sea which was invigorating and this afternoon we have been shopping and sightseeing in the town which is a very old one with some very fine old buildings including the Cathedral which has a simple but very beautiful interior. Our small knowledge of Italian has proved very useful. Keep on
